To whom it may concern,

Good morning from Troy Soccer Club! My name is Christian Hatzenbeler and I am the former boy's director of coaching at Troy Soccer Club as well as being Ian's team coach for the past year.

I had the pleasure of having Ian come from Royal Oak and his impression and impact on the team was immediate. He filled multiple roles in the attacking part of the field and is an effective player in the air and with his back to goal. His commitment to the game and his coach ability are only outmatched by his unquenchable desire to improve as a player.

Ian has developed tremendously as a player over the past year and has become a solid and strong player. He is position versatile, extremely coachable, and is dangerous finishing with his head. His infectious personality combined with his personal demand for high quality as a player make him well respected amongst teammates.

Academically Ian is a hard working student athlete. Time management and attention to detail is a critical part of his daily routine as he is always striving to achieve. In addition attends Polish school and is an active member of his cultural community.

It is for all of the above mentioned that I recommend Ian. His committed approach to academics and his commitment to the game of soccer would be an asset for any program. If you have any further questions, or would like to speak directly do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Christian Hatzenbeler
